LET US GET TOGETHER.

When the grower gets no more for a good crop than for a small one and the consumer pays no less for the necessities of life when they are rotting in the fields for lack of market, there must be something radically wrong with our system of marketing farm products. And what encouragement is there for producing more when the grower is penalized for his thrift and the consumer gets no benefit of increased production?

The marketing question is too serious to dismiss. It means more to our future prosperity than even the economist imagines. The time has come when the producer, the consumer and every legitimate business interest must counsel together and take definite steps to save some of our enormous loss in marketing.

The National conference at Chicago is discussing marketing and farm credits and it is confidently expected that a plan will be decided upon for greater economy in marketing and for cheaper funds for farm operations. This conference, it is hoped, will be the beginning of co-operation that will mean a new era in farming and a broader outlook for business.—Farm and Ranch.

It has been suggested that under the proposed Democratic tariff bill, the handsome dividends of the protected manufacturers will be cut in two, a large slice of it remaining in the pockets of the people, the consumers. We hope so, but you can gamble on it that the manufacturers are going to put up the fight of their lives to maintain the same good dividends. They will not try to maintain them by selling their goods at the same prices, they know they can not do that; but they will make their fight in an attempt to cut half in two the price of their raw materials and the wages of the laborers they employ in their factories.

The Houston Post suggests that every family in Texas have cabbage for dinner two days out of each week, in order to save the cabbage growers of South Texas. While we have a great and abiding sympathy for the said cabbage raisers, we just simply can't do it and that's all there is to it. Can't we provide the necessary relief by circulating a subscription for the benefit of the sauer kraut promoters of Texas?

Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald succeeds to the managing editorship of the Fort Worth Record. Appreciating the uniqueness of Fitz's chirography, the linotype boys will no doubt chip in and buy him a "mill" at the very start.

It is said some of Dr. Friedmann's patients claim that they have been cured. It is to be presumed they are the ones who didn't die.

Under the newly adopted amendment to the Constitution whereby United States Senators are to be elected by popular vote, it will not be such an easy matter for the old money bags of the country to buy themselves a seat in the United States Senate. Another good thing about the new method, it will cause the members of the Senate to campaign more and thus come in closer touch with the people, learn more of their needs, and build up a closer and kinder relationship generally.

The Houston Post says some of the people of Houston kick at the high cost of living if they have to pay a dime for a slab of strawberry shortcake ten inches square. What do they want? Doubtless they expect a regular old pan-pie for a dime with a pitcher of yellow Jersey cream thrown in.

President Wilson wrote his own message, read it in person and now threatens to take the stump against all Congressmen and Senators responsible for the defeat of the tariff measure, in case it is defeated. Our President evidently intends to be a "doer of the word and not a hearer only."

Col. George Bailey of the Houston Post says his soul still bears the scars of the railroad pass separator law. Amen! We are still under its withering blight, and from time to time we are called upon to do violence to our constitution and by-laws in giving up the coin of the realm to the railroads.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Olga Sheppard, sister of Hon. Morris Sheppard, junior Senator from Texas, to Hon. Cullen F. Thomas, one of the prominent men and Democrats of the Lone Star State. We hope this is not a move to build up a great political trust in Texas.

Not less than one hundred houses have been erected in Bryan during the past year, and yet it is almost impossible now to rent a house. The demand has nothing like been filled and new people are coming in every day.

How about that $25,000 annual stipend old Andy Carnegie wanted to give our ex-Presidents? Was it settled that they get it or not?

Looks like in the meager distribution of pie that has been done so far, the old-timers have gotten more of it than the new-comers.

THE SIMULTANEOUS REVIVAL

First Methodist Church.

"Christ Passing Through Bryan" will be the subject of Evangelist Holder's sermon at the Methodist Church tonight. Mrs. Hudspeth will sing "Adrift on the Waters." The house will be comfortable.

The largest week-night audience that has heard Dr. Holder listened intently to a strong sermon by him last night on a text taken from John 9-4. The chorus is getting under good headway and the music at the service was full of inspiration. Mrs. Hudspeth sang "I Know God Is True." There was one conversion during the day.

This morning Mr. Holder held a special service at Allen Academy, at which there were sixteen conversions and reclamations. The service was a thrilling one. Returning to the church for the 10 o'clock service he found a largely increased congregation awaiting him, and taking for the basis of his remarks the Fifty-first Psalm, he delivered a most searching sermon. At its close many knelt in the altar, expressing a desire to live closer to God. There was a large attendance on the cottage prayer meetings yesterday afternoon, and this afternoon at 4 o'clock Mrs. Hudspeth organized a "sunbeam choir" among the children. This choir will practice each afternoon at 4.

All Methodists in Bryan are urged to come to church tonight.

GLENN FLINN, Pastor.

First Baptist Church.

At the First Baptist Church last night the Sunday school rooms had to be opened up to accommodate the crowds that came to the services. The singing began at 7:45 and a most inspiring song service was conducted by Singer-Evangelist Carson Taylor. Songs, old and new, were sung, to the delight of everybody. Evangelist Scarborough spoke on the palsied man whose four friends brought to Jesus. He showed the importance of co-operation in church work, and especially in bringing men to Jesus Christ.

The main heart of the sermon was in having Jesus in the center. He is the one we must have. We can not have a meeting without him. We can have a meeting without pastor, evangelist, singers or church house, just so you have Jesus. His illustrations were to the point and were exceedingly touching. Many instances in his wide experience were related which were indeed pathetic. Two united with the church and one young man came forward to confess Christ. Great numbers came forward and gave the evangelist their hands, asking prayer for loved ones and pledging faithfulness to their Lord and Saviour.

The service this morning was the best yet held. Dr. Scarborough spoke on the words of Jesus to Peter, when he said: "Lovest thou me more than these?" He spoke of what love meant to the home and to everything that counted in life. There can be no happiness without it—domestic, or social, or otherwise. Gets what it wants. We serve mother because we love her. Our children know how to get what they want. But the love of Jesus is more than the love of mother or child or wife or husband. Won't we serve him for his great love to us. One young man was saved.

Come to the services, 10 a. m. and 8 p. m. daily.

M. E. WEAVER, Pastor.

Christian Church.

Last night Rev. McPherson preached on "Secret Faults and Presumptuous Sin." In this the man was vividly portrayed who is seeking to live a double life: an outward life of piety and godliness and an inner life of sin. This man was followed till we saw the outer life crumble away and the inner life crystallize in ungodliness and ruin. Presumptuous sin was declared to be flagrant and open violation of God's law. God says to me, Don't do this or that. I respond, I will do this evil thing. God says, Do this good thing, and I respond by not doing it or by going to sleep in its presence. This likewise was seen to be ruinous. Then the remedy for all sin and uncleanness was set forth in the crimson blood of Christ. Mr. Murray continues to sing his soul-inspiring songs. You ought to hear him and get the inspiration of his music.

This morning's service was the best yet. The attendance was more than double that of any other morning. We hope for a good advance over that tomorrow. Don't forget the service tonight. A great sermon and song await you.

J. N. THOMAS, Pastor.

Free Baptist Church.

Rev. Stalker will preach tonight on "The Plan of Salvation." His sermon will be preceded by a ten-minute chalk talk which you will certainly appreciate.

There were two splendid services yesterday with a goodly attendance. The attendance last night was very gratifying and all felt it had been good for them to have been in this service. Rev. Stalker used as a text Luke 18-42. At the close of the service many came forward as an evidence of their desire to know God better and walk closer to him.

This morning's service was well attended and we listened to an interesting sermon on the subject, "The Open Door."

The interest is steadily increasing, together with an increasing attendance in these meetings.

J. J. TATUM, Pastor.

Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Browne's subject last night was "Who Are Christians?" Tonight he will follow this subject with "Why Be a Christian?"

This morning was the beginning of a series of sermons on "Life," covering the period of child life. Tomorrow the subject will be continued, covering the period between childhood and manhood. The sermon this morning was most interesting and instructive, especially to parents.

Last night Dr. Browne sang impressively "All in All to Me Is Jesus."

CHARLEY GOEN IS BETTER.

J. H. Ferguson of Harvey, who was called to Hondo last week to the bedside of his son-in-law, Charley Goen, has returned home and was in town today. He says Mr. Goen is much improved, but it was necessary for him to undergo a severe operation. He is suffering with bone tuberculosis and a large section of the bone of one of his limbs was removed between the knee and hip.
